Zhou Enlai: The Story of a Peacemaker

"He maintained broad and close ties with the people and showed boundless warmheartedness towards all... We should learn from his fine style -- being modest and prudent, unassuming and approachable, setting an example by his conduct, and living in a plain and hard-working way."

...Deng Xiao Ping, at Zhou Enlai's funeral; January 15, 1976

"In some sixty years of public life, I have encountered no more compelling figure than Zhou Enlai. Short, elegant, with an expressive face framing luminous eyes, he dominated by exceptional intelligence and capacity to intuit the intangibles of the psychology of his opposite number."

-- Henry Kissinger, On China

A Special International Event

On the occasion of the gathering of world leaders from the Asia-Pacific Economic Co-operation (APEC) in Honolulu, America-China Bridge is pleased to announce the establishment of the Zhou Enlai Peace Institute.

We recognize the contribution of the former Premier and Foreign Minister to peace within China, and to peace between China and the other nations of the world. From offices in Beijing, Honolulu and Washington DC, the Institute will educate people everywhere about the life, words and actions of this extraordinary, humble man. His life's purpose was illuminated by the quest for peace.

We also welcome the Mainland China delegation to APEC, providing Hawaii businesses and individuals with an opportunity to meet informally with visitors from the Central Government of mainland China. Officials from the Foreign Ministry and Commerce Ministry, who support the objectives of the Zhou Enlai Peace Institute, have been invited to attend, as well as representatives from the other APEC economies, including Australia, Brunei, Canada, Indonesia, Japan, Republic of Korea, Malaysia, New Zealand, Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, United States, Chinese Taipei, Hong Kong, China, People's Republic of China, Mexico, Papua New Guinea, Chile, Peru, Russia, and Vietnam.

Former two-term Governor of the State of Hawaii, (1986-1994), the Honorable John Waihee III, serves as Goodwill Ambassador for this event. As a descendant of Hawaii's original people, John Waihee represents the spirit of aloha -- welcome, respect and peace -- which makes Hawaii a unique place. He will introduce all the special guests and speakers, and help to explain the significance of Zhou Enlai as a global peacemaker.

John Waihee said recently: "I agreed to support this new Peace Institute because Zhou Enlai is a hero of mine. I did a lot of studying about China, and he was the person that I admired. He was the kind, progressive face of China. I was always interested in his life. Peace is not acceptance of injustice; peace is bringing about justice. Peace is not for pacifists -- it's a lot of hard work, and you have to be a warrior for peace. Zhou Enlai is an example of that."

“I have three precious things which I hold fast and prize. The first is gentleness; the second is frugality; the third is humility, which keeps me from putting myself before others. Be gentle and you can be bold; be frugal and you can be free; avoid putting yourself before others and you can become a leader among men.”

-- Lao Tse, Tao te Ching

Background:

America-China Bridge and The Honolulu Host Committee

The Hawaii Host Committee for the APEC luncheon event is chaired by America-China Bridge, founded in Honolulu in 2007 and registered in Hong Kong. The founders are Xiao Fang Zhou, who is the grand-niece of Zhou Enlai, and her husband, American businessman and investor Michael North.

A diverse group of civic, business and cultural leaders from America and China serve on the Board of America-China Bridge. See <http://www.americachinabridge.com>

The mission of The Bridge is to build trust, respect and the foundation of peace between the two greatest nations in the world, the United States and China. Through a program of business, education and cultural exchanges, people in both countries meet each other, working together on common ideals and projects.

The first public project of the Bridge was a financial seminar, Investment Strategies for the New Century, held at the Beijing Hotel in October, 2010. Led by best-selling author Mary Buffett, former daughter-in-law of respected billionaire Warren Buffett, these seminars explored intelligent long-term investment strategies for China's emerging corporations. Several hundred representatives of China's government, private sector, educational, banking and non-profit sector attended.

A key initiative of The Bridge is establishment of the Zhou Enlai Peace Institute. During several key decades at the center of China's leadership, Zhou Enlai established a reputation for principled, honorable and humble service. He courageously led the way to opening China to the West through the visit of President Nixon to Beijing, and stood for international peace and co-operation. As a hero of peace, Zhou En-Lai deserves worldwide recognition alongside other great figures of recent history.

The Institute is sponsoring several projects, including an annual Zhou Enlai Peace Award, recognizing people in modern China who stand for peace, consistent with the standard established by the former Premier; a permanent Visitor Center in Beijing, featuring a library and research facility; and an authorized English translation of the book, "My Uncle Zhou En-Lai" by Zhou Bing De.

Having sung the song of the Majestic River,
I turn resolutely toward the East
To immerse myself deeply in all disciplines of study,
In order to find ways to rescue the troubled world.
I don't mind facing the wall for ten years;
Someday, I hope to break the wall.
Even if I fail, and end up throwing myself into the ocean,
It would still be heroic!

*poem and calligraphy by Zhou Enlai, translated by Dr. Peimin Ni,
Grand Valley State University, Michigan*

This poem was written just before Zhou Enlai left Japan headed back to China by boat, in his mid-twenties. He gave this poem to one of his classmates, who later married a family member.
